It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Lieutenant-Governor Conway addressed the Senate as follows:

In opening the second session of this Senate it is pleasing to note that nearly every Senator is present and doubtless prepared to do his full duty in the high position of trust in which the people of his district has placed him.

When we consider that the State of New York contains about one-tenth of the population of the nation, and that wealth, business enterprise and its natural resources here exist even in greater proportion, the dignity and responsibility attaching to the office of Senator can be readily appreciated.

Business and political problems in great variety and of great complexity press upon the attention for solution. Because the welfare and progress of the State and its people depend so much upon safe and progressive legislation, the need and the framing of new laws should be given the best thought and most carefully considered action of each legislator.

Among the members of this body there exists ability of a high order and wide and ample business and legislative experience. We are, therefore, justified in the hope and belief that this Senate, at its present session, will do much to give the State the same pre-eminence in wise laws and enlightened and progressive policy that it has long enjoyed in the material matters mentioned.

While it is true that laws cannot establish or enforce moral standards, unless such standards prevail among the people and are accepted by the majority, nevertheless unwise, illconsidered or reactionary laws may retard progress and tend to lower moral and business standards. We cannot overlook the fact that there exists to-day a widespread and growing feeling that our laws do not keep pace with or truly represent the best thought and the high standards in business and morals generally looked for by the people; that organized selfishness and conscienceless avarice too often shape our laws so as to secure advantages for the few at the expense of the majority. Hence the existence and growing demand for new and untried experiments in government, among them being the initiative, the referendum and the recall. It is thought by many that these proposed means of correcting abuses and insuring better legislation and administration are subversive of the principles of our government. If this be true (and it is denied by many), the way to prevent their adoption is for public officials, and particularly those in legislative positions, to scrupulously represent the wishes of the people who elected them, and particularly to strictly keep pledges made in order to secure popular support; to so act in office that there will be no ground for the charge that pledges made before election are ignored afterward and no basis for the growing belief that too often candidates chosen to represent the people and their needs only do so as far as a political boss or machine will permit them.

If the members of this important body will collectively and individually resent and reject fearlessly, as I believe they will, any attempt to influence their action from sources outside this chamber, except by legitimate argument, and make their votes upon each measure record their own individual judgment and conviction there will be little further demand in this State, in the immediate future at least, for the remedies mentioned, because there will be no need of them; otherwise the demand for them will increase, and justly so.

I trust and believe that this Senate will stamp upon the laws and policy of the State the impress of its intelligence and conscience, and thus refute the charge that legislation is not truly representative of the best thought and highest standards demanded by the well considered progressive sentiment of the day.

I believe the tendency to enact too many laws is wrong and should be checked. The determination to have less and better considered legislation should, and I trust will, make this session comparatively brief. To aid in accomplishing this the Chair wishes to state now that each daily session of the Senate will be opened at the exact hour to which it may have been adjourned, and the failure of any Senator to be present at such time will not be permitted to delay the business of the Senate unless the Senate itself so directs.

Senators Grady, Fiero and Bayne were excused for the session of to-day.

The Governor, by the hands of his Secretary, transmitted his annual message to the Legislature, which was read, ordered printed and laid upon the table.

Mr. Griffin offered the following:

Whereas, It is manifest that the transit facilities of the city of New York, in all its boroughs, are wholly inadequate and have not been improved to keep pace with the growth of population, in consequence whereof there exists a disgraceful condition of congestion on subway, surface and elevated lines; and,

Whereas, The existing corporations, which have been entrusted with the control of transit operation have utterly failed to extend or even improve the roads under their control to meet the needs of a constantly increasing population; and,

Whereas, Since the opening of the existing subway in 1904, the question of increasing rapid transit facilities has been the subject of continual agitation; and,

Whereas, During all of these eight years, plan after plan has been taken up, considered and set aside; and,

Whereas, The settlement of the question now seems as remote as it was in 1904; and,

Whereas, The people of the city of New York, have heretofore, and in many ways, expressed their conviction that all rapid transit routes should be constructed and operated by the municipality; and,

Whereas, To this end, the Public Service Commission, at an expense of upwards of $500,000, prepared plans for a rapid transit system, commonly called the "Tri-Borough Route;" and,

Whereas, Before the city of New York was permitted to proceed with the work of construction persistent representations emanating from certain sources antagonistic to municipal construction and operation were made, and rumors circulated, that the city of New York could not enter into contracts for the construction of said route for the reason that the city's debt-incurring capacity was exhausted; and,

Whereas, To determine this initial question the matter was submitted to the Appellate Division of the First Department, which tribunal on October 22, 1909, in amending and confirming the report of Benjamin F. Tracy, decided that the city had a borrowing capacity of $54,759,646; and,

Whereas, To further enhance the city's ability to incur indebtedness for the purpose of building rapid transit routes, a constitutional amendment was submitted to, and adopted by, the people of the State of New York at the election in November, 1909, excluding self-retiring dock and traffic bonds from the computation of the city's debt, thereby increasing the city's borrowing capacity about $125,000,000; thus making the total borrowing capacity of the city of New York at that time (November, 1909), upwards of $180,000,000; and,

Whereas, Successive increases in the tax valuations of the city of New York, to-wit: 1909, $84,763,915; 1910, $237,012,970, and 1911, $987,048,693, show an increase of valuation of $1,218,825,578; thus giving a further borrowing capacity of $121,882,557, and making the apparent total borrowing capacity of the city of New York at the present time over $300,000,000; and,

Whereas, If, as it is urged, this enormous margin has been depleted, then it is manifest that debts have been incurred of such staggering extent as to entitle the people of the city of New York to know, in the first place, what they were, and in the second place, why such expenditures were incurred in preference to the furnishing of rapid transit facilities for which the people had practically twice voted and which they had the right to consider, and do consider as of paramount importance; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a joint committee of three Senators, to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and five members of the Assembly, to be appointed by the Speaker of the Assembly, is hereby constituted and appointed a legislative committee to investigate and inquire into the transit situation in the city of New York; the question of the efficiency and sufficiency of existing transit facilities; the question of the debt margin of the city of New York, how it stands in relation to the question of the municipal construction and operation of new subways; how far, and in what direction, said subways and transit lines are needed; why those already designed are not undertaken; the relation of the Public Service Commission to the subject; how far the powers of said commission extend and their relation to the board of estimate and apportionment and to the mayor of the city, and that said committee make reports to the Legislature of the State of New York from time to time with such recommendations and suggestions respecting legislation as it deems appropriate, and that the committee shall make its final report and recommendations to the Legislature on or before February 1, 1913. Such committee shall elect its chairman, and vice-chairman and shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, including public officers and employees, and the production of books and papers, including public records and documents; to administer oaths, take proof and testimony, employ counsel and expert witnesses, stenographers and other assistants, to sit anywhere within the State of New York, and shall have all the powers usual and necessary in cases of legislative committees, including the adoption of rules for the conduct of its proceedings.

That the actual and necessary expenses of the committee in carrying out the provisions of this resolution, not exceeding the sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000), be paid from the moneys appropriated for the contingent expenses of the Legislature by the treasurer on the warrant of the committee and the certificate of the chairman of the committee.

Said resolution was referred to the committee on finance.

The Senate bill (No. 239, Int. No. 70) entitled "An act to amend the Stock Corporations Law, in relation to inspectors and their oath," was read the third time.

The President put the question whether the Senate would agree to the final passage of said bill, the same having been printed and upon the desks of the members in its final form for three calendar legislative days, and it was decided in the affirmative, a majority of all the Senators elected voting in favor thereof, and three-fifths being present, as follows:

Mr. Sanner offered the following:

Whereas, There are many thousands of dependent widows with children in New York city, and it is of the utmost importance that families be kept together and mothers be enabled to give their children their continued care in their homes; and,

Whereas, It is the practice in many foreign countries, as well as in this State and country also, for the city authorities to provide for the maintenance of such widows with their children, but

Whereas, Prior to the adoption of the Constitution of 1894, the justices of the Supreme Court in each judicial department were empowered by law to fix the times and places for holding trial terms of said court and to designate the justices who should hold the same; and

Whereas, It was provided in the said Constitution of 1894 that the power to make such designations and fix said times and places should be exercised by the several Appellate Divisions of said departments; and

Whereas, There arose throughout the State general dissatisfaction with the system of having these designations made by the Appellate Division, which resulted in 1904 in the adoption by the people of a constitutional amendment by which this power was revoked and taken away from the Appellate Division; and

Whereas, The Legislature in the General Judiciary Act has seemingly overlooked this constitutional command and continued the power of the Appellate Division in regard thereto; and

Whereas, The said system continues to create dissatisfaction among the members of the bench and bar, as well as among litigants and parties and has given rise to complaints; and

Whereas, The Appellate Division of the first judicial department has undertaken to make rules and regulations for the conduct of the business of the courts which on their face seem to clearly contravene the laws of the State;

Be it resolved by the Senate, That the standing committee of the Senate on codes be directed to investigate the method of fixing the times and places of holding trial terms of the Supreme Court and of designating the justices to hold said terms, and also that the said committee investigate the rules adopted by the said Appellate Division of the first judicial department to the end that any abuses which now exist in making said designation and rules may be abolished and proper legislation in regard to the said matters may be adopted. For the purpose of this investigation the said committee may send for persons and papers and take evidence in any part of the State. The said committee shall report to the Legislature not later than January 31, 1913.

APPENDIX.
EXECUTIVE JOURNAL.

EXECUTIVE JOURNAL.

IN SENATE, January 3, 1912.

A message from the Governor, at the hands of his secretary, was received and read, in the words following:

In compliance with the requirement of the Constitution that at every session of the Legislature the Governor shall communicate by message "the condition of the State and recommend such matters to it as he shall judge expedient," I herewith transmit the following message:

In addition to the receipts shown in the foregoing statement, there has been collected about $735,000 as a result of the enactment of the law providing an optional tax on secured debts.

The net receipts available for the payment of appropriations during the past fiscal year were $35,959,878.36 as against $37,769,240.07 during the previous year. Net expenditures out of appropriations aggregate $37,940,879.46 against $38,225,974.03 a year ago.

The total of general fund appropriations enacted by the Legislature of 1910 for support of government (i. e., exclusive of the fixed charge for sinking fund contributions) was $40,320,507.80 as contrasted with $38,934,964.71 for similar purposes enacted by the Legislature of 1911. This decrease of $1,385,543.09 was, however, more than offset by an increase of $1,484,284.81 in sinking fund requirements, resulting in a slight increase in the total appropriations.

STATE DEBT.

|---|------------------------|
| On September 30, 1910, the State debt was..... | $57,258,160 00 |
| During the fiscal year ended September 30, 1911, further obligations have been incurred — | |
| For canal construction | $10,000,000 00 |
| For highway construction | 10,000,000 00 |

| Leaving a net debt unprovided for on September 30, 1911, of | $52,990,787 94 |

An additional $10,000,000 of bonds for canal construction have been subsequently sold by the Comptroller.

Of the present $61,230,660 of canal bonds outstanding, $4,000,000 will be redeemed January 1, 1912, and $3,230,000 on January 1, 1913.

SINKING FUNDS.

The large annual increase in sinking fund requirements is shown by the following:

NEED OF ADDITIONAL REVENUES.

While satisfaction may well be felt with the financial record of the State for the year just past, and with the commendation generously given to the Legislature for the wise revenue-raising laws passed in 1911, and the reduction in appropriations for the general fund, yet I feel it necessary and proper to direct attention to imminent problems of taxation and revenue readjustment.

These problems are not characteristic of this State alone, but are common to all States. The modern State stands for a wider conception of public duty. Awakened appreciation of the various factors in the common wealth of the State, on the part of our citizens, and the salutary desire to develop, conserve and protect all the factors of this common wealth, are adding constantly to the cost of government.

Progressive responsibility and increasing cost of government necessitate increased revenues, and the devising of new sources of revenue for the State through taxation that may be most easily, justly and equitably borne by the people of the State, is a problem worthy of the wisest and most patriotic of our citizenship.

The present operations of our indirect tax reach all the sources of revenue supply that far-sighted lawmakers have discovered, and yet, were it not for the imposition of a direct tax of six mills in 1911, adding $6,000,000 to the State's income, this State would now be laboring with a deficit.

We are growing rapidly in population and in wealth, and if production, transportation and manufacturing are to be promoted, if education is to flourish, if canals are to be enlarged and good roads built and maintained, and if the common interests of our whole people are to be nurtured and protected, then more and more money will continually be needed. The national government is constantly reaching into the States for new sources of money supply for national needs, and everywhere the States are under pressure to discover and develop sources that remain to them for State revenue.

Monies necessary for the sinking funds — (interest and redemption payments on bonds issued for canals, good roads, etc.) — increased in this State from $2,654,943.06 in 1911 to $4,139,227.87 in 1912, an increase of over 35 per cent. in this unavoidable expenditure, and this increase must be cumulative for ensuing years, regardless of the wisdom of successive administrations or the complexion of their politics.

Adequate provision for the liquidation of the bonded indebtedness for canal, terminal, and road improvements that the people of this State have already determined upon, involves inevitable increase in the burdens of our funded debt. The subjoined table shows the total amounts appropriated by the Legislatures of 1910 and 1911, with the amounts paid to the various sinking funds and the canal funds. The difference shows the amount of the general fund budget of the State:

|--------------------------------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Appropriations | $40,320,507 80 | $38,934,964 71 |
| Sinking funds | 2,654,943 06 | 4,139,227 87 |
| | <hr/> | <hr/> |
| | $42,975,450 86 | $43,074,192 58 |
| | <hr/> | <hr/> |
| Decrease in appropriations | | $1,385,543 09 |
| | | <hr/> <hr/> |

These figures prove a most gratifying reduction in the general fund appropriations for the past year over the preceding year of 1910 — a decrease of $1,385,543.09.

Yet the wisest administration and the most reasonable economy must be supplemented by additional revenue measures in the near future, if the government of this State is to serve and protect efficiently the interests of its people. This problem should be approached in a patriotic, not a partisan, spirit. Its solution lies in the field of economics, not of politics. Service to the people of the State in the development and protection of their common wealth must be the only end sought, in the least burdensome and most equitable ways.

PRIMARIES AND DIRECT NOMINATIONS.

It is doubtful whether any single statute enacted by the last Legislature was more important and far-reaching in purpose and scope and possibilities than the law providing for direct nomination of candidates at elections and establishing radical reforms in the control and conduct of primary elections. For a period covering several years, direct nominations had been considered without result by various legislatures and widely discussed by the people at large. Not within recent years has any question relating to electoral reform aroused more interest than that of giving the enrolled voters of political parties within the State direct and absolute control in the nomination of party candidates, and the selection of delegates to conventions and members of political committees.

The last Legislature is to be congratulated upon placing on the statute books a law based on the principle of direct nominations and of the right of party voters to name and control party committees. Commendation is more deserved because of the failure of previous legislatures to comply with the just demand for such legislation from the citizens of the State, irrespective of party affiliation. The law as it stands may not in every particular be all that it should be. First laws in the establishment of a new order seldom are perfect. But its enactment is a decided and substantial step in advance in one of the most important and pressing reforms of our day. The provisions of the new law make easy popular participation in party organization and in control of party committees and nominations. Assuming that the people desire and intend to exercise the power given by the law to directly nominate candidates for office, and to control party organizations and conventions, the new law affords the method and the opportunity, and will be the means of effecting thorough and salutary changes in party management in this State.

Here and there in the law are apparently conflicting provisions which need amendment. I strongly urge and recommend early attention to these necessary changes. For example, it is unwise and improper that members of State Committees of the great parties should be elected at different periods in different parts of the State. They should be elected at the same time in every county and political subdivision — not in the fall in New York city, and in the spring in the rest of the State. Such a provision is incongruous and radically in conflict with the principle of uniform laws for the entire State.

In 1912, a Presidential year, the members of State Committees should be elected at the spring primaries in every unit of representation on the committee.

Furthermore, I am strongly of opinion that the membership of the State Committee, the highest and most powerful body within the organization of the political parties, should be enlarged by law so as to include a representative from each Assembly district, and that the members of the committee should be directly elected at the primary by the enrolled voters within the unit of representation. Of such paramount importance in political organization is the question of State Committee membership and election, that the unit of representation, and the time and method of election, should be prescribed by the laws of the State, and not left to the decision of a convention or any outside body of party leaders. The law should give authority to State Committees to impose reasonable annual dues on its members, and to appoint sub-committees to take charge of campaigns or other special work.

The Direct Nomination Law is the first step in constructive legislation upon which the State has embarked with a view to giving the voters of the State control in party affairs. The law will doubtless need amendment and readjustment from time to time to meet contingencies which only practical experience can reveal. The enactment of the statute is the beginning of the end of the contest for popular control of political organizations, and for the direct nomination of candidates for office by the voters of the State. It establishes a new order of things in the conduct of party affairs; and if the people are alive to the opportunities afforded by the law, and take advantage of them, there can be no question but that great benefit will result to the State and to the various political subdivisions within the State.

CORRUPT PRACTICES AT ELECTIONS.

I strongly recommend the enactment of effective legislation to prevent the buying and selling of votes. Twenty years ago the Empire State took a definite step in advance, through the enactment of the penal code provision requiring candidates for elective office to file statements of expenditure. At a much later period, following the disclosures of the insurance investigation, there was an imperative demand for the protection of elections against merchandise of the ballot, of which the Publicity Law of 1906 was the fruit.

Succeeding Legislatures have amended the law so that now it applies to primary as well as to general elections, to candidates as well as to political committees. I earnestly recommend a further extension of the publicity principle, so as to require a full public accounting of receipts and expenditures for election purposes, before as well as after election. The voter should know the sources, and judge the probable motives, from which proceed heavy campaign contributions; and in order to be of full value, he must possess such knowledge before the election.

It is clear, however, that no publicity law can sufficiently meet the requirements. It is our duty to recognize the gravity of the evil and to seek drastic remedies. There can be no peril so gravely menacing our institutions as that of purchased elections, for corruption of the franchise is corruption of the fountain-head of government and of the social structure.

Administrations or legislatures honestly chosen, by an uncorrupted electorate, may make grave mistakes, yet there is representative government; administrations or Legislatures owing their title to a corrupted electorate may avoid ordinary mistakes, yet there is unrepresentative government. They stand not for the people's will, but for the people's shame.

The State of New York severely punishes burglary. But the buying of elections burglarizes the inner sanctum. The State of New York insists on a life for a life; but the buying of elections can have no other or surer result than the killing of every principle and ideal of a self-governing republic. Following each important election come investigations and revelations which all too clearly indicate the extent of the traffic in the elective franchise.

Millions of immigrants come annually to our shores, to share the blessings of popular self-government. Woe betide us, and them, if their first lesson in self-government shall be that the vote has a commercial value.

Good citizens of all parties, and of every condition, are alive to the need of eradicating from our political system the terrible evils of vote-buying and vote-selling and of every other form of electoral corruption and chicanery. There should be, and there is, a complete union of all good citizens upon the proposition that our elections must be absolutely honest both in the polling and the canvassing of the votes. To make a fraudulent election return is rightfully regarded as an offense tantamount to treason against the State; to buy or sell a vote is a crime of equal magnitude and should be similarly treated by the laws of the State. In the forceful words of another, the "filching and slaughter of the suffrage is a deadly thrust at the very source and fountain of our liberties."

Upon the eve of a Presidential election, I therefore recommend that vote-buying be made a felony; that immunity be granted to the vote-seller upon condition that he turn State's evidence against the vote-buyer. The man of standing in the community who buys a vote is distinctly a worse citizen than the degraded citizen who sells a vote. The first, severest and surest punishment should rest upon the vote-buyer.

I further recommend such legislative action as may be needful to forfeit the election of any candidate against whom, directly or indirectly, through himself or another, a material degree of corruption may be proved; such forfeiture, per se, to render such candidate thereafter ineligible for public office.

ATHLETIC COMMISSION BILL.

I earnestly renew my recommendation of September 28th for the repeal of chapter 779 of the Laws of 1911, known as the Athletic Commission Bill. I repeat that when this bill came before me for signature I believed it would prevent the disorderly and unregulated exhibitions of boxing which have been given in this State for the last few years. Experience with the new law has satisfied me that it is not adapted to produce such a result. The conditions which have arisen under it are hostile to the feelings and the interests of the law-abiding citizens of the State and should be ended at once. I therefore again urge upon you the repeal of the law under which these occurrences have arisen.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION AND LABOR LAWS.

I invite your attention to the situation created by the decision of the Court of Appeals declaring unconstitutional the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1910. In view of the wonderful development and growth in all forms of business, with consequent changes in conditions of labor and the increased risks incident to many employments, it may be truly said that the principle of compulsory compensation for all industrial accidents, cannot fairly be questioned.

The trend of enlightened public opinion upon this subject is reflected in the legislation of foreign countries and American States.

There can be no doubt as to the duty of the State of New York, by reason of its commanding position industrially, to occupy the foreground with regard to this most important social and industrial question. There should be on our part no hesitancy about taking such steps as may be necessary to secure to our working population the protection of an effective, yet rational, Compensation Law.

The Constitution of our commonwealth, according to the decision above mentioned, prevents the doing of average justice to those who by their toil contribute to our material well-being and growth, and who are unfortunate enough to be injured in the course of their labor. The Constitution, therefore, should be so amended as to clothe the Legislature with power to provide by proper means the relief that labor is entitled to receive. The adoption of such an amendment at this session of the Legislature is earnestly recommended.

The advisability of amending the Labor Law relating to the hours of labor of women in factories may well be considered. There is a growing feeling that ten hours work under abnormal conditions is injurious to the health of women. Modern industry with its endless specialization and the speeding up which naturally follows, it is said, operates to the detriment of the female worker. The only relief possible lies either in prohibiting female labor in such circumstances or in the reduction of the hours of labor for women generally. The latter seems to me the wiser course.

The duty of the State to protect its women workers against those who would unduly profit by their labor is plain. It may be said that a sudden change from the order of things that now prevails in our industrial establishments would be very harmful. I do not think the change would be at all serious. Neighboring States have assumed the risks of reducing the hours of labor of women to nine per day without unhappy results. In any case I feel that commercial interest should not outweigh the humane aspects of this subject. I commend this matter to your serious attention.

My attention has been called to the need of more thorough inspection and regulation of bakeries in New York city. An examination of the Labor Law convinces me that its provisions are sufficiently broad to insure the maintenance of proper sanitary conditions in such establishments. The need is not more law, but more frequent inspection and a rigid use of the powers conferred upon the Commissioner of Labor. Places where articles of food are manufactured should be inspected every month. The necessary force of inspectors should be provided to do this work. It is idle to enact corrective statutes without providing adequately for their enforcement.

FACTORY INVESTIGATING COMMISSION.

The Legislature of 1911 authorized the creation of a Commission to investigate the conditions under which manufacturing was carried on in the cities of the first and second class with a view to recommending legislation that would more adequately protect the health and lives of the men, women and children employed in the factories and manufacturing establishments of the State, and, generally, to improve the conditions of toil. The proximate cause of the creation of the Commission was the occurrence of a fire in a manufacturing establishment in the City of New York which resulted in the loss of one hundred and forty-three lives.

The Commission has held numerous sessions in the different cities of the State, and a large amount of testimony has been taken. Under the direction of the experts of the Commission inspections have been made of a large number of factories and manufacturing establishments throughout the State and valuable statistical information gathered.

From the evidence laid before the Commission it is quite clear that remedial legislation is necessary to improve the sanitary conditions and to properly safeguard the lives of the workers in factory buildings, and that much can be done in the way of improving the methods of inspection of manufacturing establishments, possibly by a system of registration and licensing, which will be to the great advantage and improve the health and welfare of those working therein.

Testimony was given before the Commission showing that in one city of the State manufacturing was carried on in 30,000 tenement houses. It appeared that this manufacturing was carried on by men, women and often very young children, who manufactured various articles (some of them food products) in the places where they ate and slept. It seemed to be almost impossible to control the employment of very young children in this work, many of whom were kept from attending school because of the need or anxieties of their parents.

This situation presents a problem which affects not only the worker in the tenement house himself, but the general public which uses these manufactured articles. The Commission has been able to ascertain only a few of the facts with reference to this important subject during its brief existence. The subject should be thoroughly investigated so that a comprehensive plan of legislation governing this matter may be submitted.

I firmly believe that everything should be done which will safeguard the life of every working man, woman and child in this State. Humanitarian instincts and economic motives demand that every possible step be taken to check disease and accidents now so widespread among our working people.

The State's supervision and protection of the workers within its bounds should be regular and systematic and not merely the aftermath of some terrible catastrophe which might have been averted by proper diligence.

It is clear that it has been impossible for the Commission, in the short time at its disposal, to complete its labors, although its members have worked most diligently and energetically, and I, therefore, suggest to the Legislature that the time of the Commission be extended at least one year and that sufficient appropriation be made to meet its necessary expenditures.

It appears that conditions in manufacturing similar to those which have been shown in the cities of the first and second class exist in other cities and localities of the State, and that in the interest of the citizens the scope of the investigation should be broadened so as to cover the entire State and all establishments where workingmen and workingwomen are employed.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Good government and fidelity to the rights and interests of the State require faithful compliance with the constitutional provision that appointments and promotions in the civil service of the State and its civil divisions shall be made according to fitness to be ascertained as far as practicable by competitive examination. The salutary results which the people rightfully expect by the separation of the State civil service from the realm of political spoils can be achieved in full measure only by a fair and impartial administration of the Civil Service Law. It may well be asked whether it is not a breach of the spirit of a reformed civil service to change and adopt Civil Service rules and regulations so as to cover into the competitive and permanent class large numbers of adherents of one political party originally appointed without examination and apparently as a reward for political services. Especially questionable is such a procedure when it is taken at a time when change of party control of State administration seems imminent.

The support from public opinion necessary to the permanent establishment of a competitive civil service can hardly be expected if there is apparent warrant for suspicion that members of all political parties cannot expect equal treatment in the administration of the Civil Service laws and regulations. To be truly nonpartisan the civil service of the State must be open on equal terms to all citizens, irrespective of their politics. That this has not always been the case is indicated by the general belief that the protected classes of the civil service are filled almost entirely with the adherents of one political party. This impression may not be altogether warranted. Nevertheless it is the opinion of many members of the political party that at the present time is charged with the responsibilities of the State government, that they have been, in a measure, unfairly dealt with in the administration of the civil service. In former State administrations exemptions were created in large numbers without protest, or with only perfunctory objections from organized advocates of Civil Service reform. At this time, however, when effort is made to grant present State officials, elected by the people, the direct power of removal from and appointment to important places in their departments that was exercised freely and without question by their immediate predecessors in filling exactly the same places, there is strenuous protest not unmixed with exaggeration and misrepresentation. Civil service reform is a great cause, but absolute fairness and justice should characterize its development and administration. Else the citizens of the State who affiliate with the party that suffers from discrimination will feel resentment founded on a substantial grievance. To place the State Civil Service outside the domain of party politics and to prohibit its use as a reward for political service, is a laudable and patriotic aim. Success cannot be achieved, however, by making the civil service, in substance and practice, if not in form, the perquisite of partisans of one political faith to the practical exclusion of adherents of all other political parties. Fair play and equal treatment is as necessary in civil service administration as in every other department of State government.

That comparison may be made with the civil service record of the past ten years, I append the following statement of action by the State Civil Service Commission on applications for exempt classification of positions in the State service:

1900 — Governor Roosevelt, 312 exempt applications; 297 granted; 15 denied.

1901-1904 — Governor Odell, 393 exempt applications; 283 granted; 110 denied.

1905-1906 — Governor Higgins, 245 exempt applications; 184 granted; 61 denied.

1907-1910 — Governor Hughes, 505 exempt applications; 374 granted; 131 denied.

1911 — 458 exempt applications; 248 granted; 210 denied.

CONSERVATION.

This commonwealth has forest area of approximately a million and three-quarters acres, a large percentage of which has been lumbered, and of this territory 120,000 acres have been burned over. The lumbermen have removed the mature trees and thereby diverted soil energy to the young trees; but it cannot be claimed that they have removed the humus, nature's natural reservoir for retaining moisture on the high levels.

The people of to-day are merely custodians of the natural resources within the borders of the State, and we will be unfaithful stewards unless there is proper regard and prudent management bestowed upon these resources. During the past year there was inaugurated a plan whereby there will be grown in nurseries established at the two prisons in Washington and Clinton counties, and also at the State Reservation at Saratoga Springs, twenty million trees which it is planned to sell approximately at cost to those who will plant these seedlings. It seems a reflection upon our frugality to purchase these trees for planting from the nurseries in Germany and France, when their production here is merely a matter of the application of our skill and facilities.

The burned area in our forest preserve has destroyed humus, or leaf mold, which cannot be replaced in centuries. There remains but one substitute, and that is the construction of reservoirs to scientifically regulate the flow of streams. A profound obligation rests upon the State to enact laws which will increase the prosperity of our people, promote the public welfare, attract industries to this State and augment the general health and safety of our citizens. The problems involved in conserving the resources of the State for the benefit of the people are in some cases simple enough; but in others, particularly along the line of hydro-electric development, they are new and complicated, both mechanically and in their legal aspect and warrant the most comprehensive policy possible to make them effective agents for the benefit of the people.

Conserving the waters on the high levels must be understood to embrace ownership or power of control and regulation by the State, to the end that the same shall be preserved to the people for their use and enjoyment forever, thus ensuring to them all the benefits to be derived from a development of the natural resources of the State. This should be accomplished without adversely affecting existing interests. Legislation which shall recognize and conserve the interests of the people, with due regard for the rights of private business, will receive the approval of all citizens.

Hydraulic energy is a most important factor in the growth and prosperity of the State. The storm or flood waters of the streams in this State should be made available for public purposes, to benefit the health of communities along those streams by increasing the minimum flow and to avoid the devastating results of flood-time. There is no resource upon which our industrial, commercial and human progress depends more than upon a wise, comprehensive and practical development and use of this potential force which by the hand of man can be made to heat and light our homes, propel trains, move the wheels of industry and give motive force for factory, forge and spindle. This storehouse of energy and wealth and comfort should forever be the property of the State, yielding annually a revenue commensurate with wholesome development.

The hydro-electric power created by the construction of internal improvements such as the barge canal, can and should be used to invite industries to locate along the line of the canal, thereby inducing the congested population of our cities to build up communities in healthful surroundings, and by their industry furnish traffic for this great State waterway. Until these new forces are scientifically developed and utilized there will remain all the elements of destruction that every city situated on the banks of the streams has experienced for decades.

The population of the State of New York has doubled in thirty-five years. The greatest increase has followed the watercourses of navigable streams; and while the communities thus located are visited by disastrous floods with lamentable loss of life and destruction of property, they are constantly contributing to the streams by sewage disposal a menace to the public health. Scientific and sanitary disposal of sewage is no longer an experiment. I believe that every municipality should, for the sake of public health, be required to construct disposal plants whereby the lakes and streams of this State may be purified and the public safeguarded. And I recommend laws which, within the shortest possible period of time, will prevent this fouling of State waters.

Two dominant factors exist in the vast undertaking to control, develop and regulate the water in the streams of this State. First, the regulation: The waters thus conserved should be utilized and disposed of by the people and for the people. Stream regulation will increase the efficiency of the present power development in the streams to be regulated, and the direct benefit to the present power owners should be paid for by such power owners. I believe that the practical working of such a plan will enable the impounded water to be utilized for power, such power to be disposed of upon terms that will ensure adequate and just revenue to the State, and at the same time encourage the development of industries, create for labor greater opportunities for employment and contribute generally to the material prosperity of the commonwealth.

Secondly, the hydro-electric energy resulting from the development of new powers: If utilized to its full capacity, there can be created in this State a system for supplying electric current to every municipality, which will mean a saving to the people of this commonwealth of 20,000,000 tons of coal per annum. New York State is unique in its possession of this hydraulic energy. Surrounded by water on its entire western, northern and eastern borders, there is a possibility of developing from latent energy not at present utilized, one and a half million horse-power which can be distributed through feeders along the line of the Erie canal and the Champlain canal, with a loop extending through the southern tier of counties, sufficient energy to create in perpetuity the power now supplied by the annual consumption of 20,000,000 tons of coal.

These two factors are of great magnitude. They are distinct and separate; yet they should coördinate in a general plan of homogeneous development of hydro-electric possibilities. I recommend that the Legislature enact laws which will enable the initial construction of storage reservoirs looking forward to the rounding out in future years of this great economic possibility of utilizing the forces that nature has given us, instead of drawing upon the coal fields of our neighboring states.

The State should never surrender ownership or control of the great potentialities created by the barge canal and the canalized rivers which form a part of the canal system. No sale of the State's resources should be made. In fact it would seem right and proper that such sale or transfer be prohibited. The policy of the State should be to preserve ownership and control of its natural resources and develop and utilize them entirely and solely for the public welfare.

AGRICULTURE.

The agricultural interests of this State are very important, and any efforts in their behalf are in the interest of urban communities as well as rural communities, for the simple reason that prices of food products must depend upon quantities produced. This is an era of development and application of scientific agricultural methods, and the great need is to get these methods adopted as widely and as quickly as possible. Liberal support should be provided for our agricultural institutions.

The last legislature established a commission to investigate the food supply of the State. The work of this commission will include a systematic study in the interest of the development of trade conditions in farm products which will benefit both consumer and producer.

Provision should be made whereby meat sold in the markets of this State shall be subject to inspection. The federal government now inspects meat for interstate and foreign trade, but that inspection cannot be extended to the many abattoirs and markets engaged wholly in intrastate trade. This condition is inimical to the public health. Furthermore, it is against the best interests of the live stock business in this State because it encourages discriminating buyers of meats to favor supplies from other States so as to secure the benefit of inspection. A rational inspection could be developed within the department of agriculture which would do much to correct these evils.

The Oleomargarine Law should be amended to prohibit the dishonest substitution of oleomargarine for pure butter. The imitation product should not be allowed to be made or sold with any shade of yellow color which would make it an easy matter to represent it as butter.

Efforts to make known the great opportunities offered by agriculture in this State should be continued and increased. It is reported that thousands of farmers are emigrating from this country. It is my firm belief that if these farmers could be correctly informed regarding the opportunities in New York State many of them would come here.

GOOD ROADS.

There are approximately 80,000 miles of road in the State of New York, about 3,000 of which have been improved as State or county highways, 3,000 have been macadamized as town roads, 8,000 improved by counties as gravel roads, 40,000 shaped to some extent, and 26,000 miles remain in their original condition.

No question of State administration is of greater immediate interest to the citizenship of the State than that of improved highways. The time has long passed when it was necessary to advance reasons in support of the claim that it is the business and the duty of the State, within the lines of legitimate need, to use its credit and its resources to provide a comprehensive system of co-related good roads that will include every county in the State and, as far as possible, every local subdivision within each county. The only question now is how to secure for the State the best results and highest efficiency at the lowest cost to the taxpayers.

The welfare of the State requires the fullest development of its highway system. No subject is more worthy the attention of the executive and legislative branches of the State government than that of adopting wise and equitable road legislation, and of ensuring efficient road administration in the State and in the counties and their subdivisions.

The people have decided to spend more than $100,000,000 to construct waterways from the head of river navigation at Albany or Troy to the Great Lakes at Buffalo, and from Albany north to the Canadian line, thus making it possible to transmit freight at low cost from boundary to boundary within the State. But good roads constructed by the State must be the feeders of this great enterprise, or the barge canal cannot fulfill its mission as a factor in the growth and development of the commonwealth.

I have been generous in approving bills for the construction of improved highways through the southern and northern sections of the State. This I have done for what I deemed a sufficient reason. The Hudson and Mohawk rivers are our great natural waterways. The valleys of these rivers were the original Indian trails. With the incoming of the settlers there came primitive roads, then highways, then canals, followed by the railroads. These facilities for transportation and communication created great cities. The territory and counties adjacent to the canals and waterways enjoy means of communication, built in part by the State, which connect them with the great centers of trade, with the metropolis of the continent, and with the great port of exportation. Why should not the other counties of the State have similar facilities? And how can these facilities be created except by the construction of a State system of highways that will traverse every county and connect the most remote settlement with its market and the outside world?

In crossing the State the Erie canal traverses the counties in a nearly straight line from the lakes to the sea. But Cattaraugus and St. Lawrence, and counties north and south of the canal, are far removed from the State-constructed waterway. Is it not fair to presume that the people, who authorized and created the present State canal system, intended also to create for all the counties an equivalent system of State highways? Any other course would be flagrantly unfair. For that reason I heartily concurred with the last Legislature in giving favorable consideration to bills which appropriated approximately $14,000,000 for trunk lines or special highway routes through the State.

If at the beginning of the good roads movement this State had taken over all of the roads which were designated on the map by the Legislature as "State Roads," and maintained and put in condition such of these roads as were not to be improved in the very near future by rebuilding, the State would have had at the present time a fair system of roads throughout, and in many cases it would have been found that by an expenditure of not to exceed $2,000 or $2,500 a mile, using local materials, roads could have been improved to withstand the traffic to which they have been subjected.

It is not now too late to move in this matter, and the Highway Commission recommends that in the immediate future the public highways, comprising the so-called "State" highway system, shall by statute be placed under the care and supervision of the State Highway Commission, and the localities through which such highways may pass be relieved of all direct responsibility therefor, except that the towns through which such roads pass shall be required to continue, as provided by section 172 of the Highway Law, to levy a tax of $50 per mile for the repair, improvement and maintenance of the same, regardless of whether they have been rebuilt or not.

Provision could also be made that wherever practicable local labor, material and machinery should be employed in the repair and maintenance of the unimproved portions of the State system, and also that the State should provide an amount of money on these unimproved portions at least equal to the amount raised by the towns. This would make available at once annually at least $100 per mile for the maintenance and repair of all unimproved State highways in the State.

The same plan could be applied to the so-called State and County system, making it, however, permissive and dependent upon a formal request from the authorities of any particular county.

By judicious expenditure of the money available, in five years the State would possess even in the so-called unimproved roads, an adequate system of highways.

The prosperity and development which depends upon transportation cannot be completely attained by the State or its subdivisions until every mile of public highway has been put in the best possible condition for practical use. Good roads decrease the cost of transportation, permit the cultivation of crops not otherwise marketable, give a longer time for the marketing of crops, permit marketing to be done when prices are most favorable, give a wider choice of marketing places, tend to equalize railroad traffic, stimulate and equalize mercantile business throughout the year, permit more easy intercourse between residents of rural communities, facilitate the consolidation of rural schools, and expedite and improve the rural free delivery postal system.

HOME RULE FOR CITIES AND VILLAGES.

To Americans no right is more sacred than that of self-government. The fundamental principle of home rule, which is but another term of self-government, is in theory the basis of the American system of government. It is the principle upon which rests our Federal and State governments. It is the foundation of our constitutions, both National and State; yet in the actual government of municipalities and their local subdivisions within the State, the principle is not simply violated — it is forgotten and ignored. More than half the time of every Legislature is consumed in the consideration of local bills dealing with purely local matters that should no more be discussed and settled by the State Legislature in Albany than should purely State matters be discussed and settled by the National Congress in Washington.

The last Legislature is to be commended for the passage of a proposed amendment to the State Constitution guaranteeing to cities and incorporated villages the right of municipal self-government, and restricting the power of the Legislature to the enactment of general laws in reference thereto. The people of the State are to be congratulated upon the prospect, through the action of the last Legislature, of having this great and important question presented to them for final settlement. The present Legislature can perform no more beneficial service to the State than to establish, so far as possible, in the fundamental law of the State, the boon and right of home rule and self-government to the cities and villages within the State. I desire to repeat what I have said on another occasion, that local self-government should be as clearly and definitely established as State government, or as the rights of the nation within the lines of the Federal Constitution.

Instead of a self-governing community, the American city is an aggregation of people that in fact are the subjects and the victims of a legislative power outside themselves and greater than themselves.

In the State of New York there are forty cities of the third class, six of the second, and three of the first. Here is a total of forty-nine cities. In the single year 1910 the Legislature amended the charters of thirty-one cities, passed sixty-two amendatory city acts, and amended, revised or repealed three hundred and fifty-seven sections of city charters, not including the revision of an entire charter of four hundred and sixty-two sections governing a single municipality. This one year differs from no other, and in no material respect did the record of the last Legislature indicate a change for the better along these lines.

We as a people pride ourselves on our intelligence and common sense. Is there a modicum of either in a system of municipal government which requires the city of Poughkeepsie to apply to the Legislature of the State for authority to spend its own money in its own way for the benefit of its own people? What can the Senator or Assemblyman from Dutchess know of the needs of the city of New York? What can the members from New York know of the needs of the city of Lockport? And so on to the end of the chapter.

The time has come when the cities should demand that instead of being governed as subject provinces, they should be endowed with powers of government as complete and efficient as those vested in the State and Nation by the State and Federal constitutions.

If home rule and local self-government were fully and permanently established, mistakes would doubtless be made in the government of our cities. The mistakes, however, would be made by the people themselves, and correction would quickly follow.

In every true American there is a sense of civic pride that needs but awakening to be a living force, working for the uplift and efficiency of municipal government. With this civic pride aroused and utilized for the emancipation of our cities from State control, there will come the happy day when the American city will be the best governed city in the world.

EFFICIENCY IN LOCAL ADMINISTRATION.

I am convinced that much, if not practically all, of the inefficiency and apparent extravagance of cost of administration in local government in this State is due, not to questionable purpose, bad methods, or deliberate maladministration, but to unsound and slipshod methods. We need in this State, in its municipalities and its county, village and local governments, a scientific system of administration and expenditure. The present methods of local administration are devoid of system, and in their effect are chaotic and inefficient. They are not based either on study or knowledge of conditions, but on ephemeral and personal considerations.

The result is increased cost of local government which inevitably entails increased taxes, inefficient administration and diminished results that affect every department of municipal and village government, including education and health, as well as the administration of business affairs of the localities. There is a

State-wide need of measures that will promote, if not guarantee, a maximum of benefit to taxpayers for the money they pay into local treasuries. I recommend the attention of the Legislature to these matters with a view of adopting practicable and reasonable measures that will establish the following results:

A State central "Efficiency Bureau" which, at local expense, will place expert criticism, expert advice and expert service within the reach of communities too small to organize their own staffs of efficiency experts.

A mandatory minimum standard of efficiency in accounting and business procedure to be exacted by the State Comptroller or separate bureau upon all municipalities, including counties and villages.

A compulsory minimum standard of health supervision, at local expense, in all public schools, no matter how small the administrative unit, such supervision to include a minimum standard of material conditions surrounding children at school, as well as inspection for physical defects and contagious diseases heretofore included in the permissive acts provided for medical inspection and medical examination.

Among informed students of health, education and government in this State, there is an earnest and general demand for intelligent action in the directions above indicated.

TAXATION.

For a number of years past the question of taxation has been lightly considered or altogether neglected. Such changes as were made in the Tax Law did not simplify the system or improve the administration. Last year, however, the Legislature and Executive united in efforts to improve the tax system of the State. Much has been accomplished, both in the law itself and in the methods of administration. A good foundation has been laid on which we can steadily build upward toward a system of intelligent assessment and just taxation which will remove much of the friction and irritation which the subject of taxes usually arouses.

The Inheritance Tax Law has been rewritten. The exorbitant rates enacted in 1910, reaching to a maximum of 25 per cent., and which were fast driving capital from the State, have been replaced by moderately graded rates, rising only to 8 per cent. with liberal exemptions to small estates. The tax on bequests for charitable, religious and educational institutions outside of our State has been removed, and such institutions are treated in the same way as those in our State.

And finally, the wholly unjust and double taxation of intangible property of non-residents, that is to say, of stocks, bonds, mortgages and other obligations belonging to non-residents has been abolished. This double taxation has been for years a cause of friction and New York has suffered far more from the resentments aroused than it gained in revenue from the unfair tax. Now, without waiting for other States to act and regardless of what they may do, New York has enacted a just inheritance tax law.

The burden on the State Treasury to provide for the sinking fund and interest on the State debt, which will increase each year for some time to come, has been frankly and honestly met by a direct State tax of 6/10 of a mill.

At the same time a new source of revenue to the State Treasury has been provided in the "secured debt" tax. This should provide a substantial annual revenue of several million dollars and will certainly do so, if the law is enforced by the local assessors.

The opportunity afforded to the owners of bonds which come within the definition of "secured debts" to present them to the State Comptroller to be stamped on payment of the tax of one-half per cent. to the State treasury should be promptly availed of. If this is not done, the offset of debt against such securities is withdrawn. Hence it is the duty of local assessors to be diligent in placing upon their local rolls the names of all possible holders of such bonds, for the purpose of assisting the State Treasury in the event of the registration and of assisting the local treasuries in the event of failure to so register them.

The local administration of tax laws has been strengthened by statutes providing for the separate assessment of land and buildings in all the cities of the State; for the assessment of real estate in all the towns and villages, to be made against each parcel, lot or farm, regardless of the name of the owner; for a uniform and equitable rule of equalization by county boards of equalization, conforming to the rule employed by the State Board of Equalization and by changes in the form of the roll.

All of these amendments tend toward a better and more even assessment for local taxation. They have been recommended by the State Tax Commissioners repeatedly for many years.

I invite your attention to the importance of further aiding the local assessors by such changes as will simplify their work and provide further safeguards for the taxpayer against unequal assessment.

In line with these changes the method of assessing special franchises has been improved in accordance with a suggestion of the Court of Appeals, so that useless litigation may be prevented and the prompt collection of this tax facilitated.

The improvement in our tax laws noted above is largely due to the excellent work of such gatherings as the State Conference on Taxation held at Utica in January last, and to the annual meetings of the National Tax Association. A similar conference will be held next week at Buffalo. These conferences are composed of local officials charged with the duties imposed by the tax law and of citizens representing in many ways the taxpayers of the State. Their recommendations for the improvement of administration and the remedy of acknowledged evils are entitled to serious and earnest consideration.

Despite all efforts at economy the sum total of taxation increases everywhere and particularly in cities. This is due largely to the demands for more and better governmental services, and if the money is fairly levied and wisely spent the increase is not necessarily a real burden. Nevertheless, the larger and larger budgets arouse a spirit of criticism and hostility which may be due in part to a feeling that those who pay the bills do not have a sufficient voice in determining their amount or character. I therefore recommend for your consideration the expediency of allowing by general law some larger measure of home rule to the local subdivisions of the State in determining the distribution of their local expenses upon local property.

The existing laws provide that all savings bank deposits shall be exempt from taxation. These provisions had for their purpose the protection of the poor, whose use of the savings bank is for the safety of small savings rather than as a place of investment. This purpose was highly commendable, and it is proper that the poor who are thrifty enough to have accumulated a few hundreds of dollars, should be protected and encouraged to go on saving, as against sickness and misfortune. Under the protection which the law gives, however, there has grown up an abuse. While the deposits of an individual in a single savings bank under the statute are limited to $3,000, it is not uncommon for an individual to separate his funds, placing them on deposit in a single bank in the name of various members of his family other than himself, thus violating the law in spirit, if not doing so technically. Another method is for the same individual to distribute his funds among various savings banks, keeping in each one of several an amount up to the limit.

In these days when the State is exerting itself to find legitimate new sources of revenue, it would seem that some method might be devised whereby, without doing violence to the small saver, the millions of dollars in this State which seek the savings bank as a source of investment, because of the willingness on the part of the investor to accept a smaller rate of interest on account of security from taxation, might be made to pay their proper proportion for the support of the government. I recommend that a study be made, with a view of devising such equitable amendments of the present statutes as will put a stop to present abuses, without defeating the original purposes of the statute authorizing exemption of savings bank deposits from taxation.

TAXATION OF MANUFACTURING CORPORATIONS.

The Act of 1857, under which we tax the surplus tools and machinery of manufacturing corporations, is in urgent need of such amendment as will make it uniform throughout the State in its application, and a better revenue producer, while at the same time giving more encouragement to capital seeking investment in manufacturing. The Court of Appeals has ruled that this statute presents a most extraordinary confusion of ideas and, read literally, leads to most absurd results; that under it the assessors of our more than 1,500 cities, villages and townships have no law or rule to guide them in ascertaining the value of capital stock and surplus. The assessment, therefore, being merely the result of hearsay and guesswork, the tax is imposed with great inequality and much unjust discrimination throughout the State, depending entirely upon what the local assessor, unguided by any rule, chooses to do in imposing or waiving it.

For many years Pennsylvania and other nearby States have openly and boastfully taken advantage of this hostile and menacing condition of our laws to untax the machinery, tools and other personal property of their manufacturing corporations.

The result is that New York and foreign capital has invested in manufacturing in those States in preference to New York to such an extent that New York is rapidly losing its place as the leading manufacturing State in the Union, notwithstanding its superior location and advantages, and this tendency should be stopped by every legitimate means that we can adopt.

Nothing contributes so much to the growth and prosperity of a state as do manufacturing industries and their payrolls. With the completion of our barge canal and its terminals, we may reasonably anticipate that there will develop between Buffalo and New York the greatest growth of manufacturing industries to be seen upon this continent, provided that we manifest a fair and hospitable disposition toward capital in our laws relating to incorporation regulation and taxation.

There neither is, nor will there be, any necessity to exempt any portion of manufacturing capital or surplus from taxation, as is done for competitive reasons in some other States. But I am convinced that if we hope for the great increase in the investment of manufacturing capital to which we are otherwise reasonably entitled, we must couple with our other advantages a manufacturing tax law that is just, definite and uniform, and that makes the matter of location of industries in the State purely a matter of business choice between competing localities presenting greater or less natural or acquired advantages.

The Federal government tax recently imposed upon the net earnings of manufacturing corporations, suggests a method of State taxation that is worthy of consideration as an improvement upon our present unsatisfactory statute. The filing with State authorities of a duplicate of the report required to be filed with the Federal authorities, would impose no additional burden upon the corporation and would afford a definite, certain basis for the imposition of a tax that, no matter how moderate it was, would produce more revenue than is secured under the present law. Without being definitely committed, however, to this or any other particular theory of reforming our present statute, I urge the subject and its importance upon the consideration of the Legislature.

REORGANIZING OF CORPORATIONS.

In a recent case it has been decided by the Court of Appeals that the Public Service Commissions have but very limited control over the capitalization of successor or reorganized corporations incorporated pursuant to the provisions of section 10 of the Stock Corporation Law. It seems to be lawful for such a corporation to adopt a plan of reorganization involving a stock and bond issue largely in excess of the fair value of the property involved and limited only by the amount of the outstanding stock and indebtedness of the bankrupt corporation to which it succeeds. The wise policy of the law which is being enforced in other cases with general approval is that capitalization of public service corporations shall bear a definite and proper relation to the value of the property upon which their stock and bond issues are based, and the reasons are overwhelming that the same policy should be at once extended to reorganizations. It has been applied in several cases, before the decision referred to, with commendable results. An amendment to the Public Service Commissions Law designed to place the capitalization of such corporations clearly within the regulative power of the Commissions to the end that the stock and bond issue shall be limited to the fair and reasonable value of the property taken over, but leaving the distribution thereof, as heretofore, to agreement between the various interests, will be submitted to you, and I recommend its speedy enactment into law.

REGULATION OF PRIVATE WATER COMPANIES.

One important class of public service corporations has not yet been subjected to that measure of supervision and regulation extended to other classes. Most of the water supply systems of the State are owned by the municipalities which they serve. There are, however, a considerable number of privately-owned water plants serving the public. The purity of the water furnished by them, its sufficiency, the rates charged, the reasonable extension of mains to supply growth of population, the pressure given for fire protection, are all subjects of the highest importance to the communities served by these plants, and there is a well-founded demand that the State assume to control and regulate the operations of water supply corporations. The public health is dependent upon proper service and this consideration alone is sufficient to warrant the extension of the Public Service Commissions Law to this class of corporations. I therefore recommend the enactment of a new article constituting an addition to that law which shall extend its supervision and regulatory powers to them. All or practically all of these plants are situate in the second commission district and the creation of a new division in the administrative organization of that commission in charge of a qualified chief, would involve no expense not amply warranted.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

The increasing frequency of accidents at grade highway crossings of steam railroads, the peril and inconvenience to which the public are subjected at such crossings, the increasing traffic upon both the railroads and highways urgently demand that liberal appropriations should be made to carry on the work of eliminating such crossings. There are in this State, outside of the city of New York, upwards of 8,500 such crossings, a great proportion of which are a constant menace to the safety of the public. At many of these crossings in cities and villages the interference with traffic is serious and costly to the public. Gates, flagmen and warning bells have their use at such points of danger, but many of the most serious accidents occur at protected crossings. The existing law for the elimination of grade crossings was enacted in the year 1897, and in the fourteen years it has been in effect the State has paid as its share of the expense of elimination only $1,108,093.43 — an average of but $79,149 per year.

I am advised by the Public Service Commission of the Second District that since the appropriation for 1911 was made, enough cases have been taken up by it and are being pushed to determination to absorb the entire sum available in that district.

The expense of such elimination is very great. One recently completed in the city of Utica is estimated to have cost $400,000. The city of Albany is now urging an elimination in that city at a total expense of $400,000, of which the State's share will be $100,000. The city of Jamestown has secured an order for the elimination of three crossings in that city at a total estimated cost of approximately $640,000. Eliminations upon country highways cost very much less. The average estimated cost to the State of eliminations in towns during the past four years has been about $6,700 per crossing. In villages the cost is somewhat greater.

INSURANCE.

As is proper in a State whose insurance interests far exceed those of any other State and within whose borders is the insurance capital of the nation, New York has, in recent years, been the leader in movements toward the greater safety, the increased supply and the reduced cost of insurance. The reforms affecting life insurance accomplished by the legislation of recent years quieted public apprehension, checked extravagances, and, through increased dividends, considerably decreased the premiums paid by the people.

The revision of the Insurance Law during the past few years has eliminated from that statute inconsistencies and special privileges, has greatly increased the supply of dependable insurance, has vested the Insurance Department with enlarged but necessary powers, and, for the first time, has given an administrative organ of government jurisdiction both to examine into insurance promotions and to liquidate insurance concerns.

The Legislature of 1911 had a large part in this work; twenty-seven of its bills to amend or amplify the Insurance Law received the executive approval. These bills covered a wide range. The most important were:

That establishing the department of the State Fire Marshal; that penalizing rebating in connection with fire, casualty and the allied insurance lines; that for the licensing of agents and brokers writing or seeking insurance of these kinds; bills in furtherance of a policy of conservation, through the prevention of fire waste and the just reduction of insurance cost; as well as the so-called uniform bill, establishing a new code for the regulation of fraternal benefit societies; and, in addition, bills intending to check twisting and misrepresentation by salesmen, and widen both the law affecting co-operative fire insurance and the liquidating powers of the insurance department.

The Legislature should carry forward the work thus well advanced. In conserving life and property, by postponing, preventing or lessening the happenings against which indemnities are given, insurance companies have inaugurated a movement that, while lowering their loss ratios, makes for the public welfare. Where necessary, laws permitting or encouraging the use of corporate funds for these purposes should be provided.

Licenses to insurance agents and brokers should, of right, be issued only by the State, and the Insurance Department should have power to grant, withhold or revoke such licenses, on definite standards of experience and efficiency. The licensing law of 1911 is, therefore, but a beginning. When a proper organization has been formed and the correct standards ascertained, proposals intended to bring about these results should, after proper consideration, be enacted into law.

Insurance is a public necessity, its careful regulation a public duty, its cost to the people a public concern. The time has perhaps come when, in fire, casualty, employers' liability and similar lines of insurance, means should be devised — as was done with life insurance six years ago — whereby expenses and commissions should be limited by law and the cost of insurance thus properly reduced. Temporarily, the State may, to these ends, avail itself of so-called rate making associations, for that purpose legalizing them, but always reserving to itself ample power to veto any rate which, in its expense and commission factors, is not economically reasonable.

NEW STATE OFFICE BUILDING.

For years past the various departments of the State government with headquarters in Albany, have been hampered for want of office space and to-day the situation has become so serious in certain departments as to interfere with the proper conduct of the work. Many of the State bureaus are compelled to occupy quarters not only unfit for the transaction of public business, but positively inimical to the health of the people who occupy them. The State is now expending annually about sixty thousand dollars in rentals for quarters outside of its public buildings. These offices are widely scattered throughout the city and located largely in remodeled residences entirely unsuited to the purpose. The amount spent in rental is sufficient to carry the interest charges on an investment of upwards of a million dollars. The completion of the new Education Building, in my opinion, will not materially relieve the situation, and I therefore recommend the enactment of suitable legislation providing for the erection and equipment of a modern State office building in the city of Albany.

CAPITOL RECONSTRUCTION.

The disastrous fire which on March 29th swept through the western portion of the Capitol, caused irreparable loss to the State Library, and serious damage to that part of the building occupied by the State Education Department and other State Departments.

Unfortunately there were no plans in existence of the Capitol as originally constructed, and it therefore became necessary for the State Architect to employ a large force to measure up the building in all its details before plans for the reconstruction of the damaged portion could be commenced.

The work of shoring and wrecking and the preparation of plans, progressed rapidly so that subsequent appropriations made by the Legislature enabled the Trustees of Public Buildings to make a contract on August 3d for the reconstruction of the walls and other mason work, and on September 7th, for structural steel and roofing.

Satisfactory progress has been made in the reconstruction of walls and other mason work. All the interior walls have been rebuilt, damaged stone in courts and on towers replaced, all steel delivered and practically all of it erected, new skylight constructed over the western staircase and the installation of the permanent floors and roofing commenced.

During the reconstruction of the damaged portion, many of the rooms suffering from water damage were renovated and made habitable for use of Departments. A complete system of fire risers has been installed, with a fire pump located in the basement, and further means for safeguarding the building from fire are to be installed.

Plans and specifications for heating, lighting, plumbing, elevators and the general interior finish, are nearing completion, and it is expected that this work will be advertised and contracts let during the winter.

EDUCATION.

The vital basis of a thoroughly good system of education is a model elementary school near every home, which is suited to the needs of the families it serves. Such a school is worse than useless if it disposes children to look down upon the town in which they were born and to despise the work of their fathers and mothers. It is splendidly effective if it gives children the elements of knowledge and therefore the power to acquire more knowledge, and if it trains into them respect for work and develops in them the aptitude for mechanics if they live in the cities and towns, and for agriculture if they live in the country. In any event, quite enough young people will gravitate toward the professions and toward work in the stores and offices.

But the elementary schools cannot suffice. High schools, and then higher, and yet higher, are not only necessary to the efficiency of the lower schools, but without them we would not assure that equality of opportunity which is the right of all our youth.

The system of high schools has now been extended to every part of the State. Yet New York has never opened the opportunities of college education to her poor but most ambitious youth in any such measure as has been done in all the newer States. For lack of money in the treasury at the time, I felt obliged, at the last session of the Legislature, to veto a bill establishing five free collegiate scholarships in every Assembly district of the State. As observed at that time, this was done with reluctance and regret. With a universal system of schools, high and low, and such an open door of opportunity to all, our educational plans would seem equal to every need. None will regret the cost, if they can be kept in close accord with the life of the State and the hard common sense of the people.

The total enrollment in the public elementary schools is 1,315,275; in the public high schools 126,857; in the professional schools, colleges and universities 36,215; in the training classes, training schools, normal schools, evening and vocational schools, Indian schools, academies and private schools not reporting to the Education Department, approximately 430,000. The whole number of teachers employed in the public schools is 43,356; in the professional schools, colleges and universities 4,663; in other schools as enumerated above 9,350.

In the last year the State expended in connection with the educational system $7,117,988.01. Of this, $5,662,882.04, or about 80 per cent., was apportioned to local schools in aid of their expenses. The maintenance of normal schools, salaries of school commissioners, expenses of professional examinations, teachers' institutes and Indian schools, and grants to libraries, etc., exhausted about 11 per cent. more of the total appropriations.

The expenses of administration were about 9 per cent. of what the State appropriated to education.

What the State provides is but a small part of the whole cost. The best estimates show that the people of the State of New York are now expending annually about $75,265,000 in promoting education. It is a fine expression of the intelligence and purpose of a great people, and it is a cause for satisfaction and congratulation that all parts of such a system of education are working together so harmoniously and effectually.

THE EDUCATION BUILDING.

The Education Building is approaching completion. Parts of it are likely to be occupied very soon and the whole promises to be finished by the next summer or early fall. It will be a beautiful, even a monumental, building, well worthy the Empire State. This is the first instance in which any State or any other country, so far as I know, has provided a building for the exclusive use of its educational activities. It is specially fortunate, in view of the serious injury to the Capitol and almost total loss of the State Library by fire, that this new home for the Education Department and a new library was well on the way.

It is very desirable that every effort be put forth to make the new Library available to the people of the State as early as possible. It would be fortunate if that could be done by the time the whole building is available for use. It has occurred to me that it might be well to dedicate the Education Building in October or November next, with somewhat elaborate exercises which would claim the attendance of leading educators from other States and even from other countries. I recommend this to your consideration, and also suggest that the appropriations for furnishing the new building and for establishing the new Library provided for in chapter 901 of the laws of 1911, be considered early in the present session, to the end that the building be completely equipped and in most attractive form at the time suggested for its dedication.

BANKING DEPARTMENT.

There are 197 State banks and 84 trust companies, having resources of $611,833,854 and $1,751,859,001, respectively, under the supervision of the Superintendent of Banks. The resources of the banks increased $30,008,220, and the trust companies increased $149,161,283, during the fiscal year. According to the last published statements there are 884 institutions under the supervision of the Banking Department, with aggregate resources of $4,134,165,563, an increase of $260,153,270 from the previous year.

In the State there are 141 savings banks, with aggregate resources of $1,751,859,001, an increase during the year of $75,442,679. The surplus, figured on market value of securities held, totals $114,222,607, and the number of open accounts in all savings banks is 2,962,845. The ratio of surplus held to the total amount due depositors is 7.16 per cent.

On account of the manner in which the law was originally compiled and the rather desultory way in which amendments have been adopted, the law as a whole is not entirely satisfactory, and some of its provisions are vague and confusing. A general revision and simplification of this statute and a restatement of its provisions in clear and concise terms will soon become necessary. I shall, however, at this time content myself with calling your attention to certain specific recommendations.

Foreign mortgage, loan and investment companies were placed under the supervision of the Superintendent of Banks in the year 1890, and the statute as then enacted, together with corresponding provisions of the Penal Law, constitutes about the only safeguard that this State has ever afforded its investors against the fraudulent or deceptive sale of valueless stocks or inadequately secured bonds. Its enactment was the result of the great losses sustained by investors of this State as a consequence of the failure of many so-called "Western Farm Mortgage Companies" about that time. The laws with relation to such companies have been so rigorously enforced that there is not at the present time a single foreign mortgage, loan or investment company authorized to do business in this State, and no domestic mortgage, loan or investment company, organized under the Banking Law, has failed to fulfill its obligations.

At this time, when the protection of the investing public is engaging the attention of the legislatures of so many States, I think it may be well for the Legislature of this State to consider the advisability of extending the jurisdiction of the Superintendent of Banks with respect to the sale of bonds and stocks, and some means should be devised for exercising supervision over so-called "Real Estate Companies," which do a business so similar to that of mortgage, loan or investment companies, as defined in the Banking Law, that they can with difficulty be distinguished from them.

While the Banking Department is not directly charged with the enforcement of the Penal Law of the State, the Superintendent of Banks and his subordinate have been in frequent consultation with the District Attorneys of various counties in an endeavor to bring to justice those who have wronged or defrauded institutions under his supervision. As a result of the conferences in connection with prosecutions instituted against the officers and directors of failed institutions, it seems very desirable that the definitions of certain crimes against the financial institutions of the State should be more clearly stated and somewhat amplified, and it is believed that the addition of certain sections adopted from the National Banking Act will assist in safeguarding the interests of depositors.

I hope that bills embodying these suggestions may meet with your approval.

CANALS.

The most important work under the jurisdiction of the State Engineer at the present time is that of the construction of the Barge Canal, having an approximate total length of 450 miles. During the past year the construction work on the Barge Canal has progressed at a rate never before equaled, as is shown by the amount of work done and included in estimates for the various contracts. During 1909 there was approximately $7,000,000 worth of work completed; during 1910 approximately $9,000,000 and during 1911 to December 1st over $14,000,000. It is a conservative statement to say that during 1911 the contract work exceeded that done in any previous year by more than 60 per cent.

On the Cayuga and Seneca Canal careful consideration has been given to the type of locks to be constructed, particularly at Seneca Falls, to the end that the interests of the State might be best conserved and that little damage would accrue to property owners and water powers in that locality. The particular type of lock to be constructed has been decided upon and the State Engineer and Surveyor is now preparing plans and specifications for the same, to the end that the entire Cayuga and Seneca Canal may be placed under contract at the earliest possible date.

At the general election in November there was submitted to the people of the State for their consideration the Barge Canal Terminal referendum. It is a source of great gratification to know that the people of the State approved of the proposition authorizing the issuing of bonds in an amount of $19,800,000 to provide proper terminals and necessary freight handling facilities for the Barge Canal system. Necessary officers and engineers have been assigned to take up the work of preparing the plans and specifications for such terminals and work upon the same will be advanced with all possible haste, to the end that there shall be submitted to the Canal Board for its consideration the plans for certain portions of this work within a period of sixty days.

COLD STORAGE LAW.

The act passed by the last Legislature for the regulation of cold storage and refrigerating plants and the sale of cold storage foods has been enforced with the result that all cold storage plants in the State are now under inspection, all foods placed in storage or removed therefrom are stamped with the date of entry or removal, and there has been a marked improvement in the sanitary condition of the plants.

While the full benefit of this law will not be felt until the ten months period has expired (the limit of time placed by the Legislature on the storage of most foods), the necessity of this statute has already been clearly demonstrated.

The bill is designed for the protection of the consumer, in that cold storage foods are required to be sold as such and the necessary regulations for this purpose are now being drafted, after a full consideration of the trade interests affected thereby.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

There is an enormous economic loss to the State from preventable diseases. Local health officials often fail in the control of epidemics of typhoid fever, smallpox and other diseases, and the State should be prepared to take an active part in the prevention of tuberculosis and in checking epidemics. The use of diphtheria antitoxin furnished by the State has been largely successful in controlling this disease and the State Health Department should be in a position to assist local health officials in the control of epidemics and to more successfully carry on the warfare against preventable diseases.

EXCISE.

The total gross receipts under the Liquor Tax Law for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1911, was $18,319,880.27. This is an increase of $217,058.08 over the receipts for the previous fiscal year. The State's share of the liquor tax for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1911, amounted to $9,358,038.89, an increase over the previous fiscal year of $87,780.02. The locality's share of the liquor tax for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1911, amounted to $8,913,498.86, an increase over the previous fiscal year of $134,808.73. During the year ending September 30, 1911, 27,968 certificates were issued, as against 29,839 for the previous year, being a decrease of 1871 certificates, or about 6 per cent. The total disbursements of the Excise Departments for the excise year of 1910-11 were $382,682.28, against $399,167.74, in the year 1909-10.

Attention should be directed to the prevalence of traffic in liquors in uncertificated places throughout the State. The reputable dealer who has paid the tax required by law for the right to traffic in liquors should be protected from the competition of uncertificated dealers, who of necessity must conduct such traffic in places and in a manner which prevents the proper surveillance of the traffic of the properly constituted authorities of the localities where the illicit traffic is conducted. Some provision should be made, in addition to the provisions of the law now applicable thereto, by which the person carrying on such uncertificated traffic might at least be subjected to the recovery of a penalty equal to, or in excess of that recoverable from the certificated dealer who violates the provisions of the Liquor Tax Law.

PRISONS.

The number of commitments to the different State prisons and the average prison population show a slight decrease from the previous year. With the completion of 600 cells at Great Meadow Prison there is a cell for each prisoner now confined outside of those cared for in the prison hospitals.

At Great Meadow Prison arrangements have been made for the raising of trees for the reforestation of State lands by convict labor and an opportunity for the employment of prisoners in agricultural pursuits is afforded on the large farm connected with the prison. Appropriations should be made for the completion of this prison upon the plans already approved.

Prison industries are being reorganized with the view of increasing the production by introducing better business methods, from which gratifying results are already shown. Further provision should be made to allow prisoners to participate to a greater extent in their earnings for the benefit of the families dependent upon them.

I believe the construction of the Harlem Prison at Wingdale should be abandoned on account of the undesirability of the site and the large expenditure required for the construction of the buildings. I believe it is possible to remodel Sing Sing Prison to meet the needs of the prison population for some years to come with a very material saving in expenditure.

CARE OF THE INSANE.

The necessarily large expenses required for the proper care and maintenance of the insane of the State have received my most careful consideration. While it is our duty to be sure that the large sums appropriated for this department are so economically expended as to give to the State full value for the expenditures, it will be admitted that there should not be at any time an attempt to effect economies by reducing below the proper standard the quantity or the quality of the food supplied to the patients, or of the medical care, nursing or attention to which these wards of the State are entitled.

The overcrowded conditions prevailing in the hospitals of the metropolitan district would seem to make it incumbent upon the State to assist the Lunacy Commission to complete as soon as possible the Mohansic State Hospital, and to make additions to the existing hospitals, so that the ever increasing number of the insane may be suitably and economically cared for.

The development of the city of Utica in close proximity to the grounds of the Utica State Hospital led to so strong a demand for the opening of a street through the hospital grounds that a law to that effect was enacted and approved. It seemed desirable that this hospital should be moved into the country and relocated upon a farm of a thousand acres and a bill was passed and approved authorizing the State Commission in Lunacy to secure such a site. It is my hope that the hospital to be erected upon this new farm site will be in every respect a model of what a hospital for the insane should be, furnishing salutary and useful occupation for the patients, and that this farm and the farm portions of the other hospital properties shall be so managed as to serve as object lessons of intelligent and profitable farming.

Increasing interest is taken in the mental benefit secured to the insane through occupations of various kinds, and this work, both indoors and out of doors, has my hearty approval.

For the first time in many years it has not become necessary for the Commission in Lunacy to apply to the Legislature for an appropriation to take care of deficiencies incurred in the preceding fiscal year for the maintenance of hospitals.

The Commission has been able to pay all incurred debts and it has done away with the practice of the Department to carry a large number of bills from the preceding year until the appropriation for the next fiscal period became available.

The Commission has begun this year's administration free from indebtedness and it has adopted a policy which will insure the payment of all bills during the fiscal year in which they are incurred.

STATE CHARITABLE AND REFORMATORY INSTITUTIONS.

The care of the wards of the State is a duty which must be performed humanely, and with due regard to the beneficial effect upon the commonwealth. The annual increase in the population of the State means, among other things, an increase of the number of dependents, defectives and delinquents for whom the State must provide in its public institutions.

Seventeen of the State charitable and reformatory institutions, including two in course of construction, with an inmate population of 8,388, are under the general supervision of the State Board of Charities. This board also has jurisdiction over 81 county, city and town almshouses and other public institutions of charity with a population of 17,203, and 580 charitable institutions wholly or partly under private control with a census exceeding 52,773 patients and inmates daily.

As the Board of Charities points out, the current income of the State has not been sufficient during recent year, to meet the needs of existing institutions, nor to construct the new ones which reasonable progress in a great State demands. It therefore repeats a suggestion formerly made, that the greater needs in this direction be met by the issue of long term bonds, and that only necessary minor improvements and ordinary repairs be paid for out of current income.

This would allow the people of the State to decide to what extent they desire to make progress in their social work, would allow such as are approved to proceed more rapidly, thereby relieving present conditions of need, and finally would distribute the expense over a considerable period of years. Such is the custom in New York and other cities of the State, without the referendum to the people, and seems to be in the interest of a desirable progress.

CONCLUSION.

In due time reports from the various State departments will be submitted for your information and for consideration of such recommendations as may be made.

I shall heartily and unreservedly co-operate with the Legislature in every effort to enact useful and beneficial laws. The people are far less concerned with the partisan complexion of the Legislature and the State government than with the quality of laws that are enacted, and the honest, efficient and economical administration of the public business. The first duty of the Legislative and executive branches of the government, each in its own sphere, is to foster and establish equal rights and equal justice, promote and advance the welfare and best interests of all the people, and to protect the honor and dignity of the Empire State.

JOHN A. DIX.

Said nominations were referred to the committee on finance.

IN SENATE, March 21, 1912.

A message from the Governor, at the hands of his secretary, was received and read, in the words following:

STATE OF NEW YORK — EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,

To the Legislature:

In my last annual report I recommended abandonment of the Wingdale prison project on account of the undesirability of the site and the very large expenditure required for the construction of the proposed prison. My judgment in the matter has been confirmed by the report of the Commission appointed in 1911 to examine the Department of State Prisons, which report contains the same recommendation. The Commission on New Prisons has also emphatically recommended the same action in a special report transmitted to the Legislature during the present session. The facts stated in such report and the conclusions of the Commission are, to my mind, absolutely unanswerable. The objections to the site are stated as follows:

- (1) The proximity of a water-flow dangerously near the foundation levels;
- (2) Inadequate drainage;
- (3) A questionable water supply, with considerable uncertainty as to its development unless at a very high cost;

(4) Comparative inaccessibility, with incidental high rates for transportation; and

(5) The heavy cost of a completed plant entailed largely by reason of the location.

As far as I know, there has been no attempt to controvert any of these facts, the existence of which has never even been denied. The report, which is based upon a most exhaustive examination of the entire subject, shows that $400,000 has been thus far expended in the project, although the construction work actually accomplished includes only a few thousand dollars' worth of concrete foundation footings. The completion of the plant will require an additional outlay of $3,500,000. This huge expenditure does not include any estimate for furnishings and equipment.

The construction of the Great Meadow Prison, which was not thought of when the Wingdale Prison was authorized, has proceeded so far that, in the opinion of the Superintendent of Prisons, the demand for prison accommodations can be easily met without recourse to another large prison plant.

Although the Commission has been both authorized and directed to proceed with the building of a prison at Wingdale, it has been so impressed with the gravity of the situation that, in the conscientious discharge of its official duty, it felt compelled to bring the above facts to the attention of the Legislature, which manifestly must have acted hitherto either in ignorance of or under a misapprehension as to the essential conditions. The Commission reported that it had consented, under proper legal safeguards, to a suspension of work under the contract until April 1st, 1912, in the meantime, through its aforesaid report, requesting from the Legislature careful consideration of the facts and instructions in the premises.

I remind the Legislature that it alone has power to decide this serious and important question; and if the recommendation of the Executive, of the Superintendent of Prisons, of a Commission appointed by the Governor, and of the Commission which is the direct legislative agent to carry out the project, shall be ignored, the Legislature alone must accept responsibility for what will justly be deemed a reckless and wasteful extravagance, and what I can view in no other light than as a grave disregard of official duty.

To build a four million dollar prison on the edge of a swamp, with inadequate drainage, a very questionable water supply, and at a location wanting in economical transportation facilities, would be bad enough under any circumstances. To do so in deliberate defiance of the uncontroverted report of a body of disinterested officials appointed under legislative sanction, and in face of the assurance of the Superintendent of Prisons that no such prison facilities are now demanded, would be a manifest outrage upon the rights of the taxpayers, who are already in just rebellion against the increasingly heavy burdens which are being imposed upon them.

The Commission reports, although without recommendation, that it is possible for the State to secure a release from all claims under the existing contracts in this matter for about the sum of $130,000, other than any possible claim of the architect who was employed by the Commission. The claim of the architect, as I am informed, has since been presented in the sum of $85,000. It has been reported that because of an opinion rendered by the Attorney-General that the architect (who has already received upwards of $100,000) has no legal claim against the State, the Legislature would take no action at all upon the recommendation of the Executive and the Special Report of the Commission. I cannot believe that this is true. Upon the facts stated it is manifest that the prison should not be built, and under such circumstances it is inconceivable that the Legislature would deliberately refuse to stop this great waste of public funds unless a particular claim growing out of the matter should first be audited. The Legislature is not permitted to audit any private claim against the State; that function, unless exercised by some duly appointed auditor, belongs to the Board of Claims.

I urgently recommend the immediate enactment of legislation for the abandonment of the Wingdale Prison project and the cancellation of the existing contracts to build the prison; for the audit and payment of all incidental and proper claims against the State, if that shall be feasible — otherwise that such claims shall be determined by the Board of Claims; and for the construction at Wingdale, under direction of the Commission on New Prisons, or otherwise as the Legislature may prefer, of a suitable prison for the execution of the death penalty and for the detention of all those who have been sentenced to life imprisonment, as recommended by the Superintendent of State Prisons in his last annual report. The sum of $400,000 hitherto appropriated and still unexpended for the Wingdale Prison account should be considerably more than sufficient to settle all of the aforesaid claims and erect and equip the proposed death house, and might be accordingly reappropriated.

A message from the Governor, at the hands of his secretary, was received and read in the words following:

STATE OF NEW YORK — EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
ALBANY, March 27, 1912.

To the Legislature:

The appropriations of last year's administration amounted to $43,074,192.58, the income for the year against which such appropriations were made, including the direct tax of six-tenths of a mill will be approximately $44,000,000. The appropriations which it is necessary to make this year including sinking fund requirements are estimated at $49,000,000, while the revenue from indirect taxation and miscellaneous sources is estimated at but $38,000,000.

The interest and sinking fund charges for the year ending September 30, 1911, amounted to $2,907,942.06; for the year ending September 30, 1912, amounted to $4,139,227.87; and for the year ending September 30, 1913, will be approximately $6,660,000. This item of annual expenditure will rapidly increase with the additions to the State debt caused by the issuance of bonds for canal and highway purposes.

The resources of the State in the way of indirect taxation and miscellaneous receipts will not be sufficient to provide for the normal growth of the State's activities and at the same time for the certain and rapid increase in interest and sinking fund charges.

With an estimated surplus at the end of the year of only $4,800,000 and estimated income from sources other than direct taxation of $38,000,000 an increase in the direct tax will be necessary to provide sufficient revenue for the year ending September 30, 1913, I have already certified the necessity of immediate passage of a bill which has been introduced to impose a direct tax of one mill (which will provide $11,000,000) in explanation of which necessity the foregoing facts are submitted.

JOHN A. DIX.

Said message was ordered laid upon the table.

A message from the Governor, at the hands of his secretary, was received and read in the words following:

STATE OF NEW YORK — EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,

ALBANY, March 27, 1912.

To the Legislature:

For many years there has been a constant and steadily growing demand by the people of this State for an efficient law which will enable the enrolled members of political parties to directly nominate party candidates for public office and to elect members of party committees.

This demand became so universal and insistent that the Democratic and Republican parties inserted in their respective platforms in 1910, planks advocating and solemnly promising the enactment of legislation in fulfillment of the principle of direct nominations.

During the legislative session of 1911, when both branches of the Legislature were controlled by the Democratic party, there was passed a direct primary bill which, though not perfect nor as complete as might be desired was nevertheless the first act of its kind to be placed upon the statute books of this State, and was a pronounced step in the right direction.

The direct primary principle having thus been enacted into law, a foundation was created upon which a perfected structure could be built by the method of amendment.

Amendments to the law enacted during the session of 1911 have been found desirable, and undoubtedly as time progresses further amendments will become necessary to comply with changing sentiment or conditions. It is safe to predict that never again will the voters of this State return to the methods which obtained prior to the enactment of this law.

Every member of the Legislature, irrespective of party, and every State officer elected in 1910, is equally bound by the promises made to the people in their platforms, and no question of party policy, prejudice or expediency can be raised in justification of opposition or failure to act in helping to perfect the structure of the direct primary law by the enactment of necessary amendments at this session.

I, therefore, call upon the Legislature to complete at this session, such necessary changes in the law as I have already indicated in order that the people may be justified in the confidence they have reposed in their representatives by electing them to public office.

Good faith, no less than the cause of good government, requires the fulfillment of every pledge and promise to enlarge the scope and promote the efficiency of the law governing nominations of candidates for public office and the election of members of party committees.

• IN SENATE, March 28, 1912.

A message from the Governor, at the hands of his secretary, was received and read in the words following:

STATE OF NEW YORK — EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,

ALBANY, March 28, 1912.To the Legislature:

Complaint has been made to me by the chairman of one of the Republican committees in New York city that the primary election there, and throughout the State, was a mockery, and that by reason of protracted delay in the delivery of the ballots — in some instances said not to have been delivered at all — great numbers of voters were deprived of their suffrage. No similar complaint has been received by me from any other political party or faction, nor am I aware that such general unsatisfactory conditions in connection with the primary election are alleged to have existed elsewhere than in the Republican primaries in New York city. In order that the Legislature may be precisely informed as to what has been alleged, I quote in full the following communication addressed to me from New York city under date of March 27th:

“Hon. JOHN A. DIX, Governor, State of New York,

Albany, N. Y.

“SIR.—The newspapers of this morning, without regard to party or political affiliation, declare that yesterday's alleged primary election in this city and throughout the State was a farcical break down of the Election Law. Great numbers of voters were deprived of the opportunity of casting their ballots. The official ballots in many election districts were not delivered at all, and in even more numerous instances were delivered shortly prior to the close of the polls. The unexampled length of fourteen feet and the complexity of the ballot in New York county makes the provision of the Election Law for a 'substitution' of informal ballots in the absence of the official ballots, look like conscious irony. The fact that where official ballots were not supplied no copy of the official ballots containing the names to be voted for were at the polling places, made it physically impossible to 'substitute' informal ballots. An apter method of mocking at the supposed right of the voter to signify his will at a party primary could not have been devised.

"The provision of the Primary Law for a judicial review of any action or neglect of an official or public officer in connection with the Primary Law contemplates a court proceeding in each separate instance of wrong or irregularity. As an avenue of redress for yesterday's collapse of the primary election it would require the institution of thousands of special proceedings and a resultant clogging of the courts and the indefinite delay and ultimate defeat of the voter seeking to protect his rights under the Primary Law.

"When it is borne in mind that a large section of citizenship of this State regards the Primary Law in its present form as a disingenuous attempt of a bipartisan machine, to escape honest compliance with an irresistible public demand for some means of primary expression on the part of the voter it will be seen that to countenance or tolerate the utter collapse of the law whose purpose and intention is under widespread public suspicion is to add insult to injury and must precipitate a very grave electoral crisis.

"In the interest of honest politics we ask you as Governor of the whole people of the State of New York to give this matter your immediate official consideration so that by proper recommendation to the Legislature now in session and with its co-operation proper steps may be taken for the vindication of the law now on the statute books; and what we deem even more important, the vindication of the civil rights of the citizens of the State underlying the statute.

"Without presuming to formulate your course of action, it is manifest we think that another primary should be held at once to abate the public sense of outrage and to solve an intolerable situation.

CHAS. H. DUELL,
Chairman Roosevelt Committee."

This communication was immediately submitted by me to the Attorney-General, from whom I have received an opinion in the following terms:

"Section 56 of the Election Law, as amended by chapter 891 of the Laws of 1911, contains broad provisions for judicial review of primary election. It may be doubted, however, as to whether the power of court or justice, under the provisions of that section, is sufficiently broad to direct a new election in the situation developed in the city of New York. In order to avoid any question, in case it is deemed advisable to hold a new election, it will be necessary to amend the statute so as to permit the court, or a justice thereof, to so order if the facts disclosed warrant such a remedy."

I am credibly informed, and believe, that the natural confusion attending the first trial of the new primary system was materially augmented by an eleventh hour court decision, in an unsuccessful attempt (on the part of the same committee which has complained to me) to compel a rearrangement of the order in which candidates' names were to appear on the official ballot as proposed by the board of elections. The printer is said to have made affidavit that by reason of the consequent delay in settling the form of the ballot, it thereby became physically impossible to complete the printing in time.

Time has not permitted me to inquire whether, under the alleged facts, it is feasible to provide for another primary to be held at a future date by one political party only in a single city of the State. I therefore transmit to your honorable body all the facts in my possession as herein set forth, for such consideration and action as, in your judgment, may be deemed proper and advisable.
